

Dear FCC Commissioners & Staff:

I have DSL telephone service from a local ISP. It was available much earlier from Bell South, but I valued the ISP's superior technical expertise and customer support enough to wait. Restricting suppliers of broadband service to major vendors will diminish the quality of service to the customer. In addition, major vendors tend to restrict their support to major software vendors (like Microsoft), reducing diversification - always a bad thing for business health.

Sincerely,

Wakeley Purple
111 E. Tenny Ave.
Louisville, KY 40214